From all over Europe from Scotland to the Mediterranean, from Hungary to Cornwall, Elisabeth Luard has collected descriptions of traditional feasts and festivals, many of which she has experienced first hand, and hundreds of recipes for the dishes appropriate to them.

Great book as usual from Elisabeth Luard. Have read lots of her books and this does not fail to deliver, like the others it is full of interesting recipes and easy to follow with lots of history and such like threw into the mix as well.

Since the earliest times the people of Europe have gathered together, either as families or as whole communities, to celebrate their traditional festivals-their high days and holidays, their harvests, their births, weddings and funerals. This book collects descriptions of these traditional feasts and festivals.

Elisabeth Luard née Longmore is a food writer, artist and broadcaster. She is the chair of the Oxford Symposium on Food and Cookery. She was born in 1941, shortly before her father Richard Longmore was killed in action as wing commander of CXX squadron while engaging U-539.

Grub Street has recently republished European Peasant Cookery (for the 13-part tv series based on the book, see The Rich Tradition @TalkingofFood.com), European Seasonal Food, Tapas, The Flavours of Andalusia (including my own watercolours throughout); Preserving, Potting and Pickling is due out autumn 2019.
